MARINE

The Saturn left Midway Island Sunday and is now en route to Honolulu. Bhe left here with a detachment of marines for the relief of the detach-ment detailed there for the past year or so, which she is bringing back with her. She is expected Friday,

She also carried supplies for the station but, owing to the rough weather off the port (Wells Harbor), she was not able to land all of her supplies Lieutenant Slattery has just received from Washington the letter of Secretary of War to the Speaker of the House in reference to the preliminary examination of the harbor under the last River and Harbor Act. Lieut. Slattery was instructed to make this preliminary examination and he recommended that the expense involved in improving the harbor was not warranted at present. In his letter to Brigadier General Mackenzie, Chief of Engineers, through Col. Heuer, of San Francisco, Division Engineer for the Northern Pacific, he says:

'Considering the cost of improving the harbor and the small commerce to be benefited thereby, I do not consider the harbor worthy of improvecompany's needs warrant the improve-

"Lieut. Commander A. P. Niblack U. S. Navy, states that some twenty years ago, the Navy Department started to improve this harbor with the view to establishing a coaling station on the island. He further states that, in his opinion, the harbor ought to be improved, so as to allow the Navy to maintain such a coal supply. To provide facilities for storing coal at this point, and for the rapid coaling of naval vessels, would involve a large expenditure in addition to the amount necessary for the improvement of the harbor. The cost would indeed be so great as to be, in my opinion, almost prohibitive.

The improvement of the harbor for this purpose does not therefore seem warranted, unless the maintenance of coaling supply at this point is a vital necessity for naval operations.

"If the construction of fortifications for the protection of the cable is contemplated, the improvement of harbor would greatly facilitate the construction of such works and the supplying of such troops as might thereafter be stationed at this point. Even for this purpose, however, I do not consider that the improvement would be warranted.

"It is therefore recommended that nothing further be done in regard to the improvement of Welles Harbor, Midway, unless the establishment there of a coaling station or the construction of a harbor in conjunction with the defense of the cable is considered a vital necessity."

The report was endorsed by Col. Heuer confirming the recommendation, The Division Engineer says: "There is nothing in the way of commerce that warrants the improvement of this harbor. 'If Congress appropriates money for defenses and a naval or coaling station, or either, then a harbor may be necessary for the construction of these

"Under present circumstances and conditions it is my opinion that it is unworthy of improvement."

The Board of Examiners for Rivers and Harbors considered the matter at a meeting and likewise concurred in the Lieutenant's views. They say:

There may be other reasons than those of commerce which might make the improvement of the harbor desirable, such as the construction of a coal-Congress decide on either of such probe undertaken, the amount and character of which improvement would depend upon which of such projects Klumm, Otto Schieling, M. Campbell, was adopted or whether both were included. But the Board is of the opinion that the probability of such projects being taken up is so remote that a survey is not now considered neces-

The Pacific Commercial Cable Company, through whose influence it is supposed that the item was inserted in the River and Harbor act for the pre-liminary examination, set forth the claims of the harbor for attention in the following letter:

"Dear Sir: Referring to our conversation, re Midway improvements, I Miss M. E. Privett, A. J. Davis, Miss communicated with my company in recommunicated with my company in regard to this matter. They reply as follows: Midway's necessity and requirements, in the way of improvements, can not be measured by the colonies.—Dr. A. Vogler, Miss. value in dollars and cents of the cable Squire, E. The Government having insisted that the Commercial Pacific cable should land only on American territory, Midway became an important and indispensable link in the chain of cable stations between San Francisco and Manlla, and its importance should therefore be determined by the value of the interests which it serves. Midway is equally as imperiant as Ho a lighthouse and other aids to naviga tion, and owing to the treacherous ap proaches to the inner anchorages, w tenance of the station to be so diffiit our duty to call upon the Govern-ment to establish such safeguard and effect such improvements as experience has demonstrated are absolutely essential to the security and efficiency of the Midway station. 15.50 A SMALL FIRE

A ten days' fire sounds badly, but it is not always as bad as it sounds. There has been a fire burning for about that time in Honolulu and from time to time the fire department has had an engine down at the place of the "conflagration." All of the time the department has had a guard on duty watching the "fire." And it burns still IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE and probably will for a few days yet. Yet people going by there every day would not know that there was anything burning, nor even suspect it if it were not for the blue-shirted fireman on duty.

The fire is in the United States Army coal pile at the foot of Fort street. The pile is Japanese coal brought from Nagasaki and is the kind used by the transports. Fire has been smouldering for over a week, but every time it shows any signs of increasing, the department that so thoroughly protects the city turns on the hose and steam is about the only evidence of the latent fire that is visible.

Way down in the bottom of the pile spontaneous combustion has taken Letters of Administration issue to himself, the said John A. A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which docors give many names, but which few of them ceally understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, as it were, or the vital forces that sustain the a stem. No matter what may be its causes (for they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same; the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or wearlness, depression of spirits and sant of abergy for all the ordinary affairs of the.
